Westmore Oaks joins list of state honorees

West Sacramento's Westmore Oaks Elementary School is among an elite field.

The Fallbrook Street campus is one of only 35 elementary schools in California to be nominated for the federal "2002-03 Blue Ribbon Schools Program" award sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education.

"I heartily congratulate these outstanding schools, their hardworking principals, teachers and students who have captured the spirit of learning," said State Superintendent of Public Instruction Jack O'Connell last week.

The school was nominated as a "blue ribbon school" for scoring high on student achievement tests while having at least 40 percent of its student body in the "disadvantaged" category. Other schools were nominated for placing in the top ten percent in achievement.

The 35 California nominees were winnowed from a list of 247 campuses listed as "California Distinguished Schools" last year.

"They have the highest test scores in the district, which I think is awesome," said Eklund.

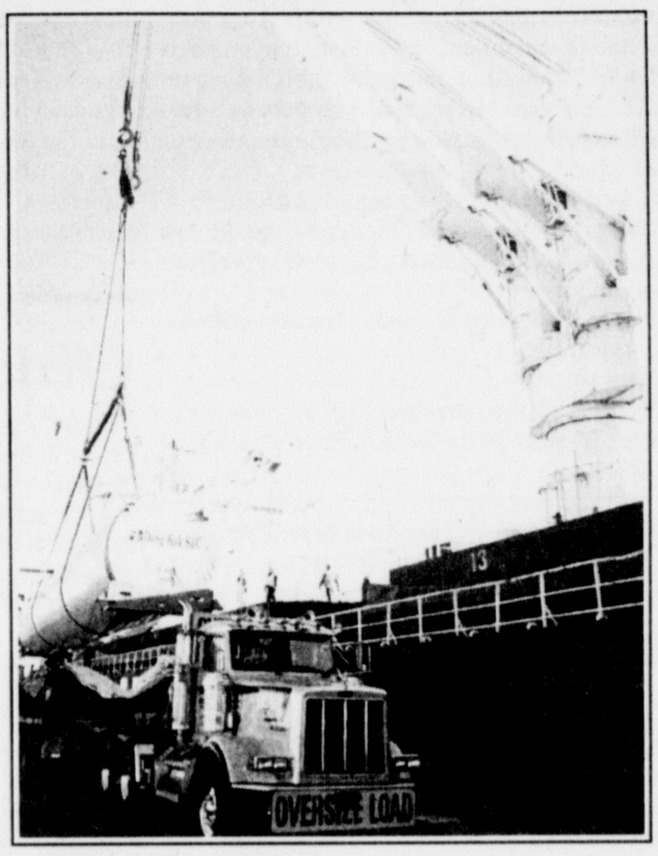

She noted that the school's economic level (often closely linked to students' performance) has been lowered since many of its students transferred to the new Southport Elementary School.

"Everybody used to call Westmore Oaks the 'prima donna' school, and then we built Southport and everybody from (generally higher income groups) in Southport wento there. The boundary line changed. Now Westmore has a higher percentage of kids on free and reduced-price lunch programs," which are a measure of income levels, said Eklund.

"Even with that change, scores keep going up. They're doing all the right things. They have an awesome principal in Eileen Kleiser, and an awesome staff."

Final award-winners will be announced in September by the U.S. Department of Education.

Power producer —

The Port of Sacramento received a new cargo Tuesday.

Coming from Korea was the first of six shipments of "giant pedestal cylinders" for electricity-producing, wind-powered turbines destined for the "Highwinds" project in Solano County. The 130-foot blade and power units intended for the turbines are being shipped by rail from Texas to join the pedestals in a journey by truck to Solano.

The components are for the "Vestas V80" wind turbine – the largest commercially-available wind turbine to operate in North America, reported a port spokesperson.

The Solano County project will be the largest wind energy project in California, added spokesman Mike MeCey.

Tuesday's shipment came aboard the M/V DS Fantasy, sailing from Korea to the West Sacramento port.

Arrest in motel shooting

West Sacramento police announced last week that charges of attempted murder and burglary have been filed against a suspect believed to have been involved in the Jan. 19 shooting of two people at the Old Town Inn, 827 West Capitol Ave.

Suspect Corey Donte Gale, 26, was already in custody at the Yolo County Jail on an unrelated charge when investigators identified him as one of three people involved in the incident. A man and an elderly woman at the motel were wounded by shots from a small-caliber handgun, and treated for their injuries – which were not believed life-threatening.

Gale is being held without bail.

Last week, Lt. Dan Ruden of the West Sacramento Police Department confirmed that more suspects are believed at large, and urged anyone with information to call 375-6474.

Strong finish for RCHS —

'Academic decathletes' place third of five in tough regional competition

River City High School finished a close third among five competitors iin this year's Yolo County Academic Decathlon, featuring students from River City, Davis, Winters, Woodland and Esparto high schools.

Hosted by Woodland Community College, teams from the five schools competed in a number of events, including economics, social studies, mathematics, music and art. In addition, each student participated in individual speech, interview and essay segments. This year's theme was "Understanding the Natural World."

"The Academic Decathlon provides an opportunity for students at all levels of academic achievement to participate in a contest that celebrates and fosters scholarship," said Dr. Jorge Ayala, County Superintendent of Schools. "It is truly a unique contest and provides an exciting showcase of the very best in individual and team-based student achievement."

"I studied a lot," she reported, "about two or three hours a night every night since September. I met a lot of good friends through this, and I learned how to speak in front of a crowd."

Also finishing at the top were senior Leanne Briggs and freshman Michael Raymond, each collecting six medals in the competition.

Associate Superintendent Patrick Sweeney "helped me coach them one week on speech – then got hooked and kept coming back, really taking them under his wing," said Carlisle.

Also helping the team during their training were music teacher Felicia Alleger; Marvin Cobb, the director of the academic decathlon competition; Deborah Gunderson of Heald College, who coached the kids on interviewing; and Sandey Green, who taught language and literature.

Saucedo (Silver, Art, Varsity Division); Chamille Cunningham (Bronze, Art, Scholastic Division); Michael Raymond (Gold, Super Quiz, Varsity Division).

For some, including graduating senior Leanne Briggs, it will be their last time on the team.

But for others, like her fellow six-time medalist this year, Michael Raymond, it may be just the beginning.

"I'll be back," said Michael.

CHAMBER: in with the new —

Outgoing president Denice Edgar named gave "West Sacramentan of the Year" honors to Frank and Joanne Ramos, noting "it is true that behind every successful man is a good woman." The Ramoses met in high school over 50 years ago, and Joanne has "kept the books" as Frank Ramos's businesses have expanded and multiplied. Their business Ramco Enterprises was a major sponsor of community events such as BridgeFest and the city's first Neighbors Fair.

Am I the only one not following 'Joe Millionaire'?

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

My twenty-something daughter and a young man (I'll call him Duke) whom she has been dating off and on for years dropped by for a visit the other evening and both of them seemed to be in a particularly good mood.

"You two sure seem cheerful tonight," I said to them as they sat down on the couch next to me.

"That's because we just got through watching Joe Millionaire," explained Duke with a big smile, "and it's really a hoot!"

"Joe who?" I asked.

"Dad," asked my daughter in amazement, "you don't know who Joe Millionaire is? Just what world have you been living in lately? Joe Millionaire is the king of reality TV!"

After admitting that I had indeed seen television commercials about a program where a bunch of women are supposed to be trying to get some guy with a lot of money to marry them, I added, "But why would anyone consider that entertainment?"

"You have to know the whole setup to really appreciate the show," explained Duke. "First, they went out and found this big, good-looking dufus of a guy who was making $19,000 a year working in construction, gave him some nice clothes and dancing and etiquette lessons, and set him up in his own chateau in France. Then they recruited 20 women, let them fight to the death over 20 fancy dresses for their first date with Joe Millionaire, told them he was worth about 50 million bucks, and that only one of them could win the grand prize -- him. Then they turned on the cameras and let the catfight begin."

"Even I have been surprised at just how vicious and catty some of the women have been," said my daughter.

"Plus the best part of the whole thing is that they're all fighting over a guy who is basically just a big stupid oaf with bad eating habits," added Duke with a laugh.

"And both of you keep investing an hour of your week to watch this?" I asked.

"We watch it together and never miss an episode," my daughter assured me.

"And it's not just the women that are doing all the money-grubbing," said Duke. "I've never seen anyone more in love with a chateau than Joe Millionaire. He's always working it into his conversations -- `have you seen my chateau?' -- `let's go back to my chateau'. I swear, he says the word `chateau' at least 50 times on every episode."

"So, how does the show go about getting down to the one woman who is going to end up with Joe and all the money?" I asked them with interest.

"They just keep eliminating a few women every time," explained my daughter. "Joe Millionaire takes each one of them out to dinner or hangs out in the hot tub with them and the ones he says thumbs down to get booted out by the butler at the chateau."

"It sure sounds pretty cutthroat to me," I said.

"Most of the time it's actually more funny than it is sad," my daughter assured me.

"And just why do you two think this show is so popular?" I asked them.

"I think it's because everyone secretly likes to watch a train wreck," said Duke with conviction.

"And it really is going to be interesting to see how everything finally turns out," said my daughter. "I've heard that there are going to be a couple of surprises at the end -- like maybe Joe Millionaire really is rich after all, or something like that."

"Anyway," I said, deciding it was definitely time to change the subject, "so tell me, what is actually going on with you two? I mean, is this a serious relationship you're in or what? I've been meaning to ask you both that for ages."

"What do you mean?" asked Duke nervously.

"Well," I said, "you two have been dating on and off for years now and I was just wondering if your relationship is going someplace or not?"

"I...I...I don't know," stammered Duke.

"Why not?" I asked, looking over at my daughter as Duke fidgeted uncomfortably on the couch.

"We're just good friends," finally said my daughter.

"How come?"

"Well," explained my daughter, returning my smile, "to begin with, Duke doesn't have a chateau."

A computer poem for those over 40 (floating around the Internet):

A Computer was something on TV
From a science fiction show of note,
A Window was something you hated to clean
And Ram was the father of a goat.
Meg was the name of a girlfriend
And Gig was a job for the nights,
Now they all mean different things
And that really Mega Bytes.
An Application was the employment,
A Program was a TV show,
A Cursor used profanity,
A Keyboard was on a piano.
A Memory was something you lost with age,
A CD was a bank account.
Compress was something you did to the garbage,
Not something you did to a file,
And if you Unzipped anything in public
You'd be in jail for awhile.
Log on was adding wood to the fire,
Hard Drive was a long trip on the road,
A Mouse Pad was where a mouse lived
And a Backup happened to your commode.
Cut you did with a pocket knife,
Paste you did with glue,
A Web was a spider's home
And a Virus was the flu.
I guess I'll stick to my pad and paper
And the Memory in my head.
I hear nobody's been killed in a Computer Crash,
But when it happens they wish they were dead.

TODAY'S QUESTION:
Derrick asks: "I have heard about 'no cost' refinances. That sounds too good to be true. Am I missing something or can this actually be done?"

DRE Lic. #01010462

YES...

A no-cost refinance is available with no hidden costs. All non-recurring closing costs such as title, escrow, lender fees and all miscellaneous title charges are paid by me.

'Are impounds paid by you as well?'

No. The cost will still be the responsibility of the borrower. You will be refunded your old impound account from your old lender. That said, however, in some cases you can have the old impounds "rolled over" to your new impound account.

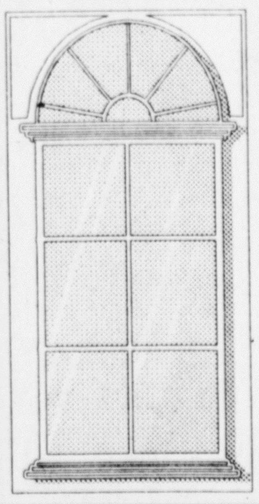

No-cost refinances can be done on most all loans and borrowers. However, just like anything, each loan is different, and so is the property and the borrower. Things change in our lives and on occasions a no-cost refi may not be viable.

A no-cost refi works simply by lowering your monthly payment, not increasing your principle loan balance, and no out-of-pocket expense.

Call me for details to see if a no-cost refi is best for your needs.

NFL Action

The NFL season has come and gone with the AFC beating the NFC All-Pros in beautiful Hawaii. The only other football activity remaining to talk about is the hiring of the 49ers and Lions head coaches. The Lions are close to signing ex-49ers coach Steve Mariucci while the Niners continue to search the college and pro ranks for their new leader. The 49ers should just hire Dennis Green and start preparing for the College draft in April. The 49ers need to add some muscle to their young defense. Oh, I forgot we do have Arena Football to watch every Sunday afternoon on NBC!

Major League Baseball

The 2003 baseball season is just around the corner as the pitchers and catchers prepare to report to spring training in Arizona on Feb. 14th with the rest of the players reporting on Feb.19th. The Giants will be play their first exhibition game on Feb. 27th against the Cubbies and their new manager Dusty Baker.

KINGS KORNER

The Sacramento Kings' (33-16) lead in the Pacific Conference is shrinking daily as they limp into the all-star break. The Kings are only 1 ½ games ahead of Portland while the Phoenix Suns have climbed to within 4 ½ games of the Kings. The Lakers (22-23) are quietly sneaking up the ladder and trail the Kings by 9 games and are only 1 game from the .500 mark. The Kings now have the same number of losses as Portland (30-16) and San Antonio (31-16).

The Lakers knocked off the Kings last Friday at the Arco Arena with Hedo Turkoglu filling in for the injured Chris Webber but the Shaq and Kobe show was too much to handle for the short handed Kings. Rick Fox even got involved late in the fourth quarter by sinking a couple three pointers to clinch the Lakers win. Ouch!

The Kings have lost 5 out of their last six games including a terrible 105-89 beating last Sunday afternoon in Houston. Yao Ming and the Rockets pasted a good one on the Kings leaving them Purple and Black to match their uniforms.

The Kings are really banged up with C-Webb out for a month with sprained ankle and Pollard is back on the DL with a broken hand after returning to the line-up last week. Bobby Jackson won't return to the roster until after the all-star game this weekend in Atlanta. The good news is that Peja Stojakovic will replace Webber at the all-star game on Sunday, Feb. 9th (5 p.m.-TNT).

The Kings will march into Dallas on Tuesday night as 7 point underdogs against the Mavs, who are still upset after the Kings beat them by 29 points on January 15th at the Arco Arena. The Kings will finish out their disappointing road trip on Wednesday night in New Orleans.

This is the reason why the NBA plays 82 games during the regular season. The basketball season is not a foot race to the NBA title. It takes a combination of a well-coached team, management strategy and a deep roster of healthy players to position your team in the playoffs. A team with this formula will be in a great position for that golden opportunity to host the best of seven championships. The Kings will have to quit talking about the referees and roll up their sleeves and just play Kings style basketball.

If Sacramento involves their whole team roster for that big second half run at the 2003 NBA Championship, everything will be fine. The fun is just starting!

See ya next week!

Booster club for Holy Cross

West Sacramento's Holy Cross School is expanding its efforts to provide the all important "extras" for the students' sports program with the help of an Athletic Boosters Club. School parents, in collaboration with Sister Anne Marie, the school's athletic director, and interested community members have been meeting since September to develop and implement fund raising ideas and oversee the expenditure of the funds.

"The sole purpose of the 'Boosters' is to enhance the athletic department of the school for the benefit of the students who participate," said Scott Gregersen, president of the Boosters Club.

"We all believe it's very important to provide as many of the 'extras' as possible to school-age children," explained Carole Ruiz-Smith, the club's Membership Chairperson, "and we've already been able to come up with enough funds to paint the gymnasium, have the basketball courts restriped, and get the snack bar up and running. Athletics are very important to young people and we want the students at Holy Cross to be able to take pride in their athletic programs and facilities as well as their studies."

Some of the needed additions to Holy Cross School's sports program which have been identified by the Boosters Club include assistance with the purchase of uniforms and equipment, installation of an irrigation system that would make possible the development of soccer fields and baseball diamonds, and the improvement of the boys/girls basketball court.

"Sports programs are often among the first to suffer when schools are short of funds," added Carole Ruiz-Smith, who was also a member of the River City High School Boosters Club in the late 1970s, "and our hope is to get as many people involved as possible. We're already off to a good start but there is still much to be done."

Memberships in the Boosters Club are available to anyone wishing to support the sports program at Holy Cross School. The league games hosted at the school draw people from all over Sacramento and provide an excellent forum for businesses to advertise. Every family with children at Holy Cross, church parishioners, and members of the community are encouraged to support this worthwhile program through one year memberships ($10 per family). The club is also accepting any business owner or individual who wishes to donate materials and/or labor.

For more information, you may contact any one of the club's officers: Scott Gregersen, president; Kevin Haugen, vice president; Krissy Ruiz, secretary; Tammy Garfio, treasurer; Kim Raybould and Carrie Conlan, snack bar chairpersons; and Carole Ruiz-Smith, membership chairperson, through Sister Anne Marie of Holy Cross School at 371-1313.

If you would like to join the Holy Cross School Boosters Club, please see their coupon advertisement on page 5 of this week's News-Ledger.

(NAPS)—It's doggedness that does it. Kelly Davis, 13 of West Bath, Maine, raised money to buy bullet proof vests for police dogs. When told it was illegal to raise money for the police, she lobbied the legislature and changed the law.

Now, Davis is an inaugural hero for the Volvo for Life Awards—a national program to celebrate individuals doing extraordinary things.

Award organizers are seeking nominations for individuals making outstanding contributions in safety, environment or quality of life. Judges will select 10 finalists to each receive $10,000. Three winners will be selected and a $50,000 contribution will be made in the name of each winner to a charity of his or her choice. One overall winner will receive a Volvo for life.

OPINION

Letters to the Editor —

Teachers' union responds

As members of the Executive Board of Directors of the Washington Teachers' Association (WTA), we must respond to Sandy Blazak's letter "Bad time for teacher raises."

Ms. Blazak states, "At the meeting the teachers or their union arranged for students to present the school board with a petition and pander for their raises." This statement is totally false. WTA did not initiate any petition drive by students or parents. However, we would like to thank them publicly for their heartfelt support. Furthermore, WTA did not have "young children holding signs in the back of the meeting room" as alleged.

At this time, teachers in West Sacramento have concluded their planned, short term "Work to Rule." The work slowdown was intended to draw attention to our current contract dispute and the extra hours teachers devote to their students with little or no compensation. In order to minimize the impact on students and their families, the district was notified in advance of this action (which lasted 14 days at the high school and nine days elsewhere). Surely it is within our rights not to volunteer our time and services without being labeled "immoral." We did not "use" children in any way.

In reference to the raise the teachers in the Washington Unified School District (WUSD) received two years ago, the governor allotted extra funds to schools and encouraged districts to use that money for increasing teachers' salaries. Surrounding districts awarded salary increases retroactive to the beginning of that school year. The teachers of WUSD settled on a mid-year increase and revised the salary schedule to achieve equity with other districts. WTA's goal was, and still is, to both attract and retain quality teachers.

WUSD teachers have been working without any salary increase or a current contract since July, 2001, despite the fact that the district received a 3.8% cost of living adjustment from the state. During this same time period, teachers in surrounding school districts received cost of living increases, making our previous attempt to achieve equity with other districts futile.

We recognize the fiscal uncertainties facing both the district and the State of California; however, WUSD's ending fund balances remain well above the state required amount. And by not settling our contract dispute in a timely fashion, the district continues to show its lack of respect and disregard for teachers. Quality teachers should not be sacrificed to accommodate poor fiscal management and unwillingness by the board to ensure the district's ability to attract and retain the best teachers.

This has been an unusual time for our district, which has caused teachers to take their concerns beyond their classroom doors. We would welcome the opportunity to reach a settlement that would allow us once again to concentrate all of our attention on students. But we cannot, and will not, allow ourselves to be disrespected, devalued and distracted from our mission of having highly qualified teachers for every student.

Lets go to war!

Our question with Iraq is simple, we either remove Saddam Hussein from power or we leave him alone and let him run his country. The middle ground is like sitting on a sharp fence.

We keep trying to have this middle ground of equivocation. The people in the squishy middle don't want to remove pressure from Saddam Hussein, nor do they want to act. They like sitting on the fence and after twelve years it has become painful.

The simple questions are, has Saddam violated enough international laws, and has he become a big enough menace to the world to remove him? By now we have all the information we need. If the answer is yes, then let's remove him from power by whatever means necessary and soon. If he has not violated enough international laws, U.N. resolutions, and isn't a menace to the world, then let's leave him alone, completely!

The middle ground of equivocation keeps our economy uncertain, keeps our troops in harms way, and is making everyone in the U.N. and the world community look foolish. Make the decision and act.

Saddam Hussein needs to go and needs to go soon. The time for talk is finished and the time for action is now.

In support of teachers

I was one of the many Washington Unified School District teachers who attended the dedication ceremony of the new Civic Center. I heard Mayor Cabaldon speak of the progress West Sacramento is making and the people and groups making that progress happen. Not once did Mr. Cabaldon mention the teachers of West Sacramento. I found this highly ironic.

For West Sacramento to become the "premier city" of the area means that developers must fill all the new homes being built. People must want to move to West Sacramento and that means the city has a vested interest in how our schools are run. It's time for the community to get involved.

The Washington Teachers' Association has been at impasse with the district since last summer. We have been working without any salary increase, including a cost of living adjustment, since 2001. In order to attract good teachers to our growing district, and to retain those already here, we must have a salary schedule comparable with surrounding districts. WTA asked for a salary increase only in the amount the COLA received by the district on July of 2001 (3.87%). This money came to the district but was not offered to the teachers. Rather, the district's offer was, and remains, 0%. In other words, a teacher's salary is worth less now due to inflation.

This failure to settle our contract has led to several job actions. Most recently, teachers conducted a short period of "Work to Rule" during which we stopped performing volunteer activities such as staying after school to tutor students -- all of which is done on our "free" time. We have also picketed board meetings and handed out leaflets to make the community aware of our concerns. Surprisingly, very little of this news has been reported in the local paper.

The interest of the Washington Teachers' Association is to be able to attract and retain qualified teachers. We feel that the students of West Sacramento deserve the best. To do this, the cost of living adjustment from 2001 should be added to the salary schedule so we become more competitive and do not lose teachers to surrounding districts.

The city and developers should care about this matter. Poor employee relations and strife at the schools will not attract new homebuyers. The community as a whole should let the school board know that it's time they settled with the teachers.

Nice celebration

At the January 25th West Sacramento Civic Center dedication, attendees were not only offered a tape (by which to measure their city?), but also a (push button) lead pencil (an invitation for attendees to "get the lead out?")

How about a bus stop/shelter in front of the new city hall like the one facing south on Triangle Court around the corner from 500 Jefferson Boulevard?

Yes, the celebration was neat and worth repeating. Not on a yearly basis, but how about the same time frame every other year?

Timing this year was great, so let's maintain it. About two weeks after newly elected/re-elected city council members have taken office. Not only do some officeholders usually change, but other issues have been voted on by the public; thus an update or review every other year would seem very timely. Population changes and duties can change, thus justifying a biennial tour. And a good time to celebrate "Hot Day" and refresh our memories.

Mardi Gras 101

Let's say that about this time last year, you and some friends decided that 2003 would be the year that sees you screaming for beads at Mardi Gras. And let's say that a few months ago you recalled your declaration, got everyone together and actually booked a hotel room in the greater New Orleans area. Now what?

There are a lot of things that the first-timer should know about the legendary New Orleans fest. It seems the only stories that circulate are about the incredible amount of drinking and flashing going on.

The truth is, New Orleans is a very family-friendly city, and Mardi Gras is a wonderful event for both single partygoers and parade-loving families. Here are some tips for enjoying your stay in New Orleans during Mardi Gras, from the hometown experts at www.mardigrasneworleans.com.

• The French Quarter, home of legendary Bourbon Street (and all the alcoholic excess that goes with it), is a great place to have a good time. But keep your wallet safe, follow the directions of law-enforcement officials and relax. It's fine to have an open alcoholic beverage on the street, as long as it is in a plastic cup — no glass. Also, despite what you might have heard, the drinking age is 21 and enforced. After the sun goes down, the French Quarter is no place for the kids. There are no parades that run through the French Quarter anyway, so keep it adults only.

• Pick the parades you want to attend, and claim your spot EARLY. The street can look totally clear one minute and a half-hour later, there will be a crush. Map out the parade routes and come prepared — with chairs or blankets (if the weather will be chilly) and plenty of patience.

• Yell for beads, but don't forget your safety. Don't ever run into the parade route to pick up beads or other booty from the throwers. It's unsafe and can quickly get you arrested. If something falls on the ground, don't bend over to pick it up; a rush of the crowd can send you to the ground to get trampled. The experts suggest stepping on the item and picking it up when the coast is clear.

• Plan transportation in advance. Parking in the Central Business District and the Garden District is tough on a regular day, and you can forget parking in the Quarter if you don't live there. Lots fill up quickly during Mardi Gras, as do hotels with attached parking garages. If you plan to drive in, be very careful about where you park, as tickets and towing are the order of the day.

Bottom line: Don't be rigid. Plan for it to be crowded and exciting. Give extra deference to the legendarily good-natured cops of New Orleans, and don't drink too much. And, of course, have a great time.

Car Care Corner

Warm Answers To Cold Questions

(NAPS)—Although your car would look silly in a parka, there are things to do to keep it running well in cold weather. The following are some common questions — the answers will help to keep both you and your car healthy and safe:

Q. I'm going on a long drive to one of the big ski resorts. Are there things I should do to prepare my car?

A. Preparing an emergency kit is great for winter driving—especially before a long drive on winding roads. Bring a shovel, flares, jumper cables, blankets, water, large flashlight, portable radio, batteries, work gloves, towel, first aid kit and some sand or kitty litter for emergency traction. Before you leave, inspect all of your exterior lights to make sure they are all working.

Q. Are my all-season tires okay for driving in the snow?

A. Many all-season tires are designed for both wet and dry weather conditions. However, many tire manufacturers recommend a set of four winter tires for snowy weather. If you don't have much snow in your area, you should at least have your treads checked at a tire retailer or a Jiffy Lube service center, where they will do it for free. Or, place a penny in the tread with Lincoln's head upside down and facing you. If you can see the top of Lincoln's head, it is time to replace your tires.

Q. I tend to let the gas tank level drift pretty low during the winter. The fewer trips to the gas station—the less I'm stepping out into the cold! Is this all right?

A. Always keep your gas tank at least half full during the winter. The more air that's in the tank, the more condensation can form, adding water to the gas. This can hurt its performance and possibly cause fuel system damage.

Q. Should I drive differently in snow or icy conditions?

A. The best treatment for roadside emergencies is prevention. Here is a quick course in driving on snow and ice: Go steady and slow, avoid jerking the wheel, give yourself extra braking room, and sign up with an auto club that provides emergency roadside assistance.

Q. Are there any other things I need to do for my car for the winter besides making sure the antifreeze and battery are in good shape?

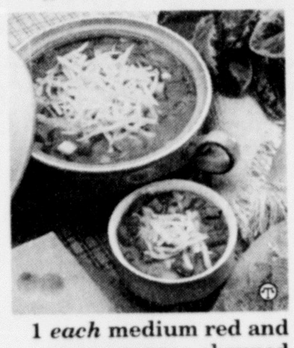

A. You're on the right track, as your antifreeze fluid should be fresh and the battery fully charged. If your battery is older than two years old, bring it to a Jiffy Lube service center. The technicians can check the battery as well as all the vital fluids, belts and hoses, wiper blades, and windshield washer fluid. It's also the right place to be if it's time for your 3,000-mile oil change.

So when you're listening to the day's forecast and thinking about what coat to wear, remember that your car feels the cold, too. Treat it right, and it can take you through rough weather for many more years to come.

THE YOLO INDEPENDENT — FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1918.

WILL CELEBRATE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

Next Monday, March 4th, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leinberger will celebrate the 60th anniversary of their wedding which took place in Willmingto, Delaware, in 1858.

The celebration will simply be a little family gathering suitable to the people of their advanced ages, and gotten up in an unostentatious manner.

Next August Henry Leinberger will be 88 years of age and his estimable wife will pass her 80th milestone next April. Both are still in good health and every day attend to their duties just as they did twenty and thirty years ago.

They have been residents of Washington since 1860 and are counted among the most patriotic citizens of the community.

ONLY ONE CANDIDATE REMAINS FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Belle Parkinson, the incumbent, is the only known candidate to fill the position of School Trustee in Washington for which an election will be held on March 29th.

A few weeks ago there were rumors of other candidates being in the field but these have withdrawn leaving Mrs. Parkinson the only one to succeed herself.

Mrs. Parkinson has served during the past two years and filled the position with credit to herself and great satisfaction to the children, teachers and taxpayers.

In good part it was through her efforts that the present magnificent school building which cost $30,000 was brought about.

The claim has been made in Sacramento County that for the election the register of 1917 is available.

This does not appear to be correct for several lawyers have advised that a new registration is necessary for the election.

So far this year only thirty-seven voters have registered in Washington and it is only these that seem to be eligible to vote at the coming election.

The ballots that will be used at the election will have space whereon voters may write in other names.

for the theft of a number of sacks from the Sacramento Valley Dock and Warehouse Co. and who confessed his guilt to Superior Judge Anderson in Woodland, thereby gaining probation, has been re-arrested and found to be a deserter from the army. On February 25th his previous sentence was revoked and he was sent to San Quentin to serve an indeterminate sentence. It seems that Gordon's father holds a responsible position in the Navy Department in Washington, D. C., and does not know of his son's trouble.

The firm of Silva and Sanchez are using three caterpillars of 75 h. p. each on their ranches in West Sacramento and in the Netherlands. They are also open to contracts for the cultivation of land along the river at any point where these machines may be used.

Enos and Silva are cultivating forty acres along the N. E. Railroad, in what was formerly known as Riverbank Extension No. 2. A caterpillar and gang plow are turning over the land at the present writing, after which it will be sowed to oats for hay.

Mrs. Tony Sanchez has been confined to her home for several days of the past week with an attack of grippe and has suffered considerably. Yesterday she was able to be around her home.

The Independent is the home paper for 4,000 people!

"MOST SUITABLE LAND IN THE STATE" FOR PURPOSES OF BULB GROWING

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Briggs, whose home is located in West Sacramento about a mile and a half west of Washington on the State highway, are enthusiastic over the prospects before them.

A few months ago they bought ten acres of land in Carly Acres and a few weeks ago added to their holdings through the purchase of seven and a half more acres.

On this land they are going to make a specialty of growing flowers and bulbs for wholesale and retail trade and in addition will introduce many new plants and flowers that have never before been seen in this locality.

Their principal crop will be gladioli, of which species they have now planted about 750,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs have been harboring the ambition during many years of owning their own home and their own land for this special purpose. Both are experts in this line and accumulated their knowledge as amateurs during several years of experiments.

Working for several years on land in Oak Park that was not suitable for this business and accumulating as they went, they decided on the purchase of this land after mature consideration.

These plants need a rich sand and loamy soil of considerable depth and needing little irrigation. The owners claim that in West Sacramento they have found the ideal place and in addition are located on one of the best traveled highways of the State and close to large markets.

Mr. Briggs has traveled up and down the State for several years in the employment of the California Cultivator. During all that time he had in mind the object he has now accomplished but it was difficult to get just what he wanted. In West Sacramento he believes he has secured all the necessary advantages he desires and proposes after a while to devote his entire time to the business.

In the meanwhile Mrs. Briggs, who is just as well versed as her husband, is taking charge of the little farm and depends, not alone on the theories she has read that were written by learned professors but actually goes out into the field to look after the precious bulbs that are prized so highly by flower admirers.

Immediately fronting the Briggs home an automobile supply station has been established. This became necessary because travelers, running short of gasoline on the road did not hesitate to rob Mr. Briggs' Ford when they became stranded.

EXTENSION OF 'BUS LINE TO WASHINGTON NOT YET READY

The question of extending the City Bus line to Washington and Riverbank from Sacramento has had some consideration by the authorities of the corporation but they are not yet prepared to say if the service will be extended across the bridges.

This matter is of much importance to the people at this side of the river, for with the approach of summer there comes the dread of heat that has been a bane to travel across both these bridges.

Speaking to The Independent, Leo K. Lobner, President of the corporation, said last Wednesday:

"We are not yet definitely settled in Sacramento. We have been experiencing the troubles of all new corporations and we have had the antipathy of our competitors to overcome.

"When these questions are settled we shall give due consideration to the request of the residents of Yolo County and if demand warrants us, we shall willingly extend the service as far west as it will pay.

To lose is to lose what Belgium has lost and to suffer what she has suffered.

BEAN WAREHOUSE IS WORKING NIGHT AND DAY SHIFTS

The Sacramento Valley Dock and Warehouse, just south of the M-street bridge, is the busiest plant in and around Sacramento that can be imagined.

Over sixty men are continually engaged warehousing and stacking beans, until it would seem to the ordinary observer that there is no end to the beans in sight.

Piled to a height of forty feet, bean sacks stand threatening the passageways of the warehouse and yet the flow of bean sacks never ends.

Today over 100,000 sacks of beans are stacked in this great plant and every sack represents a valuation of not much less than $10.

There are white beans, pink beans, speckled beans, black beans, blue beans and every other kind of beans that were ever known in the history of agriculture, and all these beans were grown in West Sacramento or the immediate vicinity.

In addition to the men who work two shifts in the warehouse, there are several women engaged there at the present time, or to be exact, six. These women work with little machines that operate like sewing machines with a treadle. From a large hopper beans and rocks are dispersed on a belt and those women select the beans, throwing out the rocks.

The warehouse is a busy hive of industry. All the cleaners are continually busy and yet the supply of uncleaned beans seems everlasting as to be at the door of the institution. By boat and rail and truck and wagon, they come from all quarters until one wonders where the ground can be where these beans grow.

The warehouse is served by rail and water. From up river come thousands of sacks for cleaning and warehousing. From down river as far as Isleton other thousands of sacks come to be cleaned and warehoused.

The stream of beans seems to be everlasting.

And now that the Government has taken over the white bean supply, the movement of other varieties will increase rapidly.

The warehouse of the Sacramento Valley Dock is worth inspection. The Superintendent, F. H. Sherman, is on hand all the time and scarcely ever a breakdown occurs. Thousands of tons of this excellent food have been moved out of the warehouse and never an idle moment is experienced by the men in the employ of the corporation who secure good wages for their work.

KILL VALUABLE PIG AND CART IT AWAY IN A WHEELBARROW

Last Wednesday morning J. Faris, 73 years of age, stealthily entered the Leinberger slaughter house yard and killed a young pig weighing about 70 pounds by a blow on the head with some blunt instrument.

In a wheelbarrow which he had brought from Sacramento with him he loaded the pork and recrossed the river. At Twelfth and I streets he was stopped by Officer Conaty and investigation was made of his load.

He was placed under arrest and the porker traced to this side of the river.

Yesterday morning he appeared before Judge Barry for trial and was sentenced to serve 90 days in the County Jail.

The pig was a valuable animal and would have cost about $25 if used for breeding purposes.

Nothing was known of Faris in this community until he was placed on trial.

A Sacramento paper said last Sunday: "There will surely be an end to the manufacture and sale of heavy alcoholic drinks, and there should be."

Evidently the writer must have felt the weight and suffered the experience of the over-indulgent.
